

SUBJECT: Changing your PPP Access Number
PLATFORM: Macintosh OS 8.x and 9.x

The following information describes how to change the phone number using Remote Access on the Apple Macintosh 8.x and 9.x operating systems. If you are using an alternative dialler, you will need to call the help desk or seek third party technical assistance.

Open Remote Access

Click on the Apple Menu (top left hand corner of the Macintosh screen).

Choose Control Panels.

Scroll down the new list, and click on Remote Access

Remote Access Settings

You should now see one of two possible Remote Access screens. If you can see your username, then skip this section. If not, then you need to click the small arrow next to the word Setup.

Change the dialler settings

1. Click into the Number field
2. Delete the existing number
3. Type 086 727 234

Hot Tip! If you have Call Waiting and would like to disable it temporarily, then just prefix the number with either *52 (for Telecom) or #29 (if you are connecting from Wellington or Christchurch and your phone number starts with 9).

The username and password fields should already have the appropriate information entered into them. If not, then enter your own paradise.net username and current password.

To close Remote Access and save your settings, click the square at the top left hand corner of the Remote Access window.

When prompted, click Save.

Congratulations!

You have changed your paradise.net dial up number.
